

Summer Snaps

In this edition, we continue with Kim Frisbie's trip to England

Thank you, Kim, for sharing Capability Brown's Stove with us

Kim writes: “Brown was head gardener and clerk of the works at Stowe from 1741-1751. As John Phipps writes, ‘It is impossible to overestimate the importance of Stowe, either to Brown or to the whole English landscape movement.’ We walked the grounds after lunch, covering over 5 miles...numerous temples, follies, winding rivers diverted by Brown for the overall effect, ha ha’s to keep livestock at bay, and glorious vistas at every turn.”
